Spring has officially arrived, and it finally looks like the warmer weather is here to stay.

One of our favorite ways to celebrate spring and the nice weather it brings is on rooftop with a drink in hand. Fortunately, New York City is full of rooftop bars with strong drinks and spectacular views, and we've rounded up our favorites.

Located in Manhattan's Hell's Kitchen neighborhood just steps from the Hudson River, Cantina Rooftop boasts stunning skyline views of Midtown Manhattan. A good view is only part of what makes Cantina Rooftop one of our favorite rooftop bars though. The restaurant features an innovative, modern Mexican dinner menu and expertly crafted cocktails, with a focus on tequila and mezcal. Thanks to a retractable rooftop and abundant space heaters, Cantina Rooftop's views can be enjoyed all year long, rain or shine.
